- 06 Studies at Åbo Akademi University 1992 (1991): Information for foreign applicants. Åbo Akademi, International Office, 1991/1992
- 07 Masters degree, Licentiate, Doctorate in Library and Information Science

! The Language of Instruction is Swedish.
 Studying at Åbo is free of charge, i.e., there is no institution fee. However, students do have to pay a compulsory fee (about FIM 460 during 1990) to the Students' Union. Åbo cannot offer financial support to foreign students. Every year foreign students are required to prove to the Immigration Authorities that they have enough money to cover all expenses during stay in Finland.
 The average living expenses of a single student is around FIM 3000 per month. Finding accommodation at a reasonable price may be rather difficult in a university town, unless one gets a room or a flat in a student hotel.

! This department is one of the important departments of Librarianship in Poland. The study of this discipline has a long tradition at the Jagiellonian University. Lectures in Bibliography were inaugurated here in 1811. - Foreign students are expected to meet the same requirements as Polish students, which means that they have to be both spoken and written Polish. Students from abroad have to pay annual fees which are fixed by the Jagiellonian University.

- ! "Information is all around us [...] Without an uninterrupted flow of up-to-date and relevant information governments could not govern, industry commerce and the public services would cease to function and the everyday duties of citizenship, from abiding by the law to exercising the franchise, would become impossible" (William Martin, The Information Society, page 2). This quotation summarizes the philosophy behind Library and Information Studies at the Universidad Carlos III in Madrid. The Department of Library and Information Science opened in the academic year 1990/91 with the mandate to prepare information professionals capable of facing the challenges of the Information Age within the European Community.
