

AmI' 13 best paper award by JAISE

During the 4th edition of the Joint International Conference on Ambient Intelligence (AmI' 13) held in Dublin (Republic of Ireland) last December, IOS Press rewarded through our Journal JAISE the authors of the Best Paper by their attention to quality and the potential impact of their work.

The prize for the best paper consists of one year free subscription to JAISE and other products accessible through MetaPress kindly provided by IOS Press, the publisher of JAISE. The chairs of the conference directly based upon the judgment of the Program Committee unanimously decided to award the prize to the paper: “Exploring Persuasion in the Home: Results of a Long-Term Study on Energy Consumption” by Patricia M. Kluckner, Astrid Weiss, Johann Schrammel and Manfred Tscheligi from the University of Salzburg (Austria).

The photo in Fig. 1 shows, on the right, Juan Carlos Augusto (Program co-Chair of AmI' 13) presenting a certificate to Thomas Grill (on the left) who brilliantly presented the paper on behalf of the authors.

JAISE and IOS Press plan to extend this practice to other major events in related fields as a way to stimulate high quality research around the world in the area of Ambient Intelligence and Smart Environments.

Fig. 1. Best Paper Award.