

From the Editor

Liz Auth, the Editor's Assistant for WORK, has been in this role for five years. Together, along with the Editorial Board, authors, external reviewers and the staff at IOS Press, we have grown WORK to what it is today: an author friendly, interdisciplinary, international journal which publishes high quality peer-reviewed manuscripts covering the entire scope of the occupation of work. I am so grateful to Liz for her dedication to the journal and wish her my best as she goes on maternity leave. It is exciting that Liz is having twin boys! Liz will be missed during her six months maternity leave with her growing family. During this time, Amanda (Mandy) Nardone will assume the role of the Editor's Assistant. Mandy and I have worked together for many years on the Project Career grant; and I know you will enjoy working with Mandy as you have with Liz. Let's warmly welcome Mandy into this new role.

This issue of WORK contains 14 articles on a variety of topics such as: the test-retest reliability of the SLUMP questionnaire; job satisfaction and absenteeism; the effect of backpack load placement on physiological and self-reported measures of exertion; differences in posture kinematics between using a tablet, a laptop, and a desktop computer in sitting and in standing positions; the relationship between emotional intelligence, reaction time, aerobic capacity and performance in female track & field athletes among others.

I trust that you have been enjoying our webinar series, Learn at WORK. If you missed any of the webinars, you can find the recordings at the Learn at WORK YouTube channel: <https://www.youtube.com/channel/UCOJalCXvSg9fPHaFFs48PuQ>
